Subject: Microsoft/Redhat proposed settlement

I am a woman of few words (if you can believe that), so I will make this short.

Anybody who thinks that Microsoft's proposed settlement is better than RedHat's settlement is obviously insane. Anything that puts more computers in front of students, educating them in some of the most important skills they could ever use in the business world today and years from now, is a very good thing.

Thank you and have a happy holiday season,
